Electronic Remittance to Child Support Payment Central

August 2009

Benefits of Electronic Remittance

Several initiatives included in the 2010/2011 state budget were designed to reduce costs and improve operations. One such initiative will require employers with more than 50 employees to remit payments to Ohio Child Support Payment Central (CSPC) electronically beginning in October 2009. (ORC Chapter 3121.)

- Accuracy - Before you submit electronic payments, Ohio Child Support Payment Central (CSPC) verifies employer and employee data to ensure that payments are properly identified. Thereafter, employee information is confirmed during each payroll cycle, not re-entered, which eliminates costly errors.
- Economy - Electronic payments save staff time. There are no checks to print. No labels. No envelopes. No postage.
- Convenience - Electronic payments require only one transaction per pay period. Just review your last submission and update the information as necessary.
- Security - Fiscal practice: One person at your company can confirm employee information, and another person can authorize the payment transaction.

 - A user manual with easy-to-follow, step-by-step instructions.
 - No charge for Ohio remittances. While there is a one-time charge of $2.50 to verify and test financial account information, there is no cost for any employer to remit payments to Ohio CSPC using ExpertPay.
